Myrtles Are The Winners Of Both Races

Honolulu Celebrates The Fourth

The Natal Day dawned bright and clear this morning. The prospects for a perfect day for the celebration were early apparent. At 7 o'clock brisk showers began to fall generally throughout the city. The rainfall lasted but a brief time, however, and served to cool the air and lay the dust, so that the day was delightful. During the exercises at the Capitol grounds a slight shower fell, but the rain caused no inconvenience.

In the city the center of the celebration was of course at the Capitol grounds where several orations were given. But the largest crowd naturally attended the annual rowing races at Pearl Harbor in which the crews from the Healanis and Myrtle Boat Clubs participated. These races occurred in the morning, the usual special train leaving the city at 9 o'clock for the Peninsula to convey the large crowds to the scene of the race course. The crowds returned during the forenoon immediately following the ending of the last race.

The military and civil parade in the city started a few minutes before 9 o'clock. It was not so large as has been seen in former years, but it was quite impressive, as there was a large turnout of military including the regulars from Camp McKinley, the marines and the National Guard of Hawaii. The fire department made a splendid turnout in this parade. The exercises at the Palace grounds occurred shortly after 10 o'clock. There was an excellent crowd at the grounds. All available seats provided by the committee were occupied and hundreds of people stood during the program.

At noon occurred the national salute of forty-five guns. This was the second salute of the day, however, as sunrise had been ushered in with the national salute also.

The day festivities will be continued immediately after the lunch hour. At 1:30 o'clock interest will center at the base ball park when there will be a game between the Kamehameha and the Elks teams. The second game between the H. A. C's and Mailes will follow immediately after the close of the opening game. It is expected that the ball park will be crowded.

In the evening fireworks will occur at the Palace grounds. The fireworks will begin at 7:30 o'clock. Fireworks have always been a popular form of entertainment in Hawaii and large crowds will throng the grounds and streets this evening.

Following the fireworks celebration, there will be dancing. One dance will be held at the Hawaiian Hotel while another will be given at the Young Hotel. The dancing will commence at 9 o'clock. A general invitation is extended to the public by the Fourth of July committee to attend the events. Dancing will be continued until quite late. The Rapid Transit Company will operate cars as late as 12:30 o'clock. These cars will make through connections with all parts of the city. The music for the dancing is to be furnished ed by three quintette clubs. Dancing will be held on the lanais of the Hawaiian Hotel and in both ball rooms of the Young Hotel.

Captain Samuel Johnson of the National Guard was marshal of the day; and had entire charge of the parade. The parade was formed on Richards street with the right resting on King street. The procession moved along King street to Nuuanu, thence up Nuuanu street to Vineyard, thence along Vineyard to Emma, down Emma to Hotel, along Hotel to Fort, down Fort to King, and Waikiki on King to the Palace grounds where a large crowd reviewed the parade.

The column was headed by the drum corps, then following Captain Johnson and aides. Behind him came the Concordia band. This organization showed much improvement in their playing and furnished quite lively music. The National Guard followed immediately after the band. The two companies of artillery from Camp McKinley under command of Captain J. C. Nichols formed the next detachment in the line of march. Following the artillery companies came a detachment of marines. The Fire Department headed by Fire Chief Thurston, was the last division of the column. The engines and department made a splendid showing. The metal parts of the outfit had been brilliantly polished and shone in the sunlight. The engines and cars were handsomely decorated in the national colors. The department was highly praised all along the line of march. But for the department the parade this year would have been entirely military in character.

The parade dispersed immediately after passing the capital building and the crowd in the grounds then had to wait for nearly three-quarters of an hour before the musical and literary exercises began. All of the speakers, singers and guests of honor occupied seats on the band stand. At 10:15 o'clock the Concordia Band which had been stationed on the Ewa side of the grounds burst into the strains of "America" which began the program. Colonel J. W. Jones was chairman of the day. He called the meeting to order and introduced Rev. Doremus Scudder who opened the exercises with prayer.

Following the close of the prayer, Frank E. Thompson was introduced. Mr. Thompson read the Declaration of Independence. The young orator read the thrilling statements of the famous document in a most impressive style and at the close was given hearty applause.

"My Country 'Tis of Thee" (Hawaii Pono) was then sung by a double quartette, among the singers being the following: Miss Stella Love, Miss Agnes Lyle, Mrs. Adolph Constable, Mrs. Buzzell, Miss Louise Day, Miss Lishman, Mrs. Haley, Miss Mary Aylett, Miss Leo Martin, Miss Gertrude Hall, Robert White, J. D. Dougherty, Dr. G.

MYRTLES WON 5 HEALANIS 4

This was a great day for the scarlet and white, for the Myrtle Rowing Club's representatives won both the senior and the junior races at Pearl Harbor and there is naught but gloom in the camp of the Healanis. Both races were well rowed throughout and the Healanis though beaten have the satisfaction of knowing that they put up a gallant fight in the face of conditions which would have disheartened any but the pluckiest of athletes.

The attendance at the course was large, for in addition to the people who make their summer home in the neighborhood of Pearl Harbor, a special train of twelve cars took out many hundreds of enthusiastic "roosters," both male and female, from the city. The scene at the yacht club grounds was a pretty one. The loch was gently rippling in a pleasant breeze and the different craft aloft were all gay with bunting of every hue. The special arrived at ten and its appearance was the signal for the two crews to paddle away down to the starting point at the head of the loch.

The crews in the senior race were: Healanis Crew—F. B. Damon, stroke; Dan Renner, No. 3; Paul Jarrett, No. 2; Bert Heilbron, Bow; Harry Steiner, Coxswain.

Myrtle Crew—George Crozier, stroke; Ned Crabbe, No. 3; Ernest Kopke No. 2; Louis King, Bow; Luther Hough Coxswain.

The officials of the day were in a launch which followed the racing crews throughout. They were: Judges—A. A. Wilder, A. L. C. Atkinson, Lieut. Hamilton.

Timekeepers—C. L. Crabbe, L. P. Scott, Chris Willis.

Regatta Committee—C. C. Rhodes, W. W. Harris, W. Soper.

As the seniors left their respective quarters they were heartily cheered by their fellow members and the crowd up at the finishing point began to feverishly discuss the chance of their favorite. The popular opinion was that the Myrtles had the better and this influenced the betting to the extent that Healanis money was looking for short odds. There was however no heavy betting to be seen, most of the speculators putting up small wagers merely for the fun of the thing. The defection of Williams, the stroke of the Healanis, after weeks of training and the substitution of Damon at the eleventh hour was felt to militate strongly against the success of the blue and white while the comparative greenness of the bulk of the Myrtle crew was a source of worry to the followers of the scarlet.

The men were given an excellent start and the Healanis forged at once to the front with a stroke of thirty-three. They gained a good quarter length on the Myrtles and kept the lead for the first quarter mile. Here Crozier, who had been rowing at thirty, called to his men and quickened noticeably. The crew responded and the scarlet began to pick up on the blue. Inch by inch the Myrtles crept up until they were on even terms and then slowly, but very surely they began to forge ahead. Damon's stroke had dropped to twenty-eight at the half mile and he tried to raise it but with the only result that the waist of the boat got a little out of time. Still the Myrtles drew away, until they were a good three and a half lengths to the good with only a quarter mile to go. Opposite the Healanis quarters a mighty yell from the blue camp followers put heart into stroke Damon and his stalwarts. He called for the boat and the men went to it like wolves. They struck the water well together and were putting every pound of their beef into their work. There was a yell of delight from the Healanis supporters on the bank as the big gap between the boats began to close perceptibly and to add to the excitement of the occasion the Myrtle crew's work began plainly to weaken. The Healanis stroke had gone up to thirty two while the Myrtles were hitting it at twenty but the spurt had come too late. The gun sounded just after the clear water had been closed with the Healanis gaining rapidly. The Myrtles had won by a scant three-quarters of a length. Time 10:48 1-5.

The crews cheered one another heartily and rowed back to their quarters. The Healanis had no excuses to offer and all agreed that they had rowed a magnificent race. The Myrtles were loaded down with well deserved congratulations. Their work throughout was clean and consistent oarsmanship. They used every pound that they had and they used it well.

HOLT AFTER NEW PERSONAL TAX

JEWELRY BEING MORE VIGOROUSLY LOOKED AFTER BY THE TAX ASSESSOR.

The men who own great big diamonds and who sport repeating, split-second chronometers are not saying anything about their possessions these days. The diamonds are turned toward the wall and the fine watches are replaced for ordinary wear by the common or garden variety of Waterbury which may be had for eighty-five cents. It is Tax Collector Holt who has wrought this sudden change, for he has dug up the section of the act of 1896 which bears on the taxation of personal property and finds that watches and jewelry are specially mentioned as fit objects for taxation. It has of course been plainly impossible for the collector to estimate the exact value of the watches and jewelry of certain citizens, but there is nothing like being on the right side and the estimates that he put on the belongings of certain estimable citizens has been bringing them hot foot to the tax office.

"There is nothing new in the application of the tax to such articles of personal property," said the collector. "A good many people forget to make a return of their jewelry and so I have to remind them of it. Several people I've called to see about it but it is only necessary to show them the act which deals with the matter."

ANOTHER SHARK AT AQUARIUM

BIG FELLOW CAUGHT TODAY AND NOW ON EXHIBITION—CRISTENED INDEPENDENCE.

Another big shark has been caught off Waikiki and is now in the shark pen at the Aquarium. The fish was captured this morning. It is now enjoying life in the rather confined limits of the pen.

A ten foot shark was captured and taken to the pen some days ago but the shark did not survive imprisonment and died within a few days. Great disappointment was felt when the death of the shark became known. The present shark is slightly larger than its predecessor. The shark will no doubt, attract large crowds to the Aquarium. It has been named Independence in honor of the day when it was captured.

HAWAIIAN HOTEL TONIGHT. The dancers at the Fourth of July ball tonight at the Hawaiian Hotel will enjoy the newly renovated lanais in their beautiful new white coat of polished paint.

The floors have not been allowed to be used since their renovation a fortnight ago, and as a consequence they have become with the addition of wax well rubbed into them, hard and well polished on their surface, and will be a delight to the participants in the dance. The main building in the past few months has had a new white coat from the top to the basement, and at night, with its myriads of colored electric lights, presents a beautiful appearance. In honor of the day new light decorations have been added to the top story of the building, and the grounds tonight will be a dream with some new effects in Japanese lanterns.
